Julie Marlette joined the NYSSBA staff as deputy dictor of governmental relations in October of 2013.

Prior to her current role Julie held numerousoles in the New York State Legislature, first working in the office of Sente Minority Office of Conference Services; as Legislative Director for Assemblymember Susan John; alsegislative Analyst for the Speaker's Office of Program and Counsel; and, as Senate Steahnalyst for Elementary and Secondary education. Julie also served as a governmetations representative for the New York State School Boards Association, wherese has now returned in a new role.

After more than a decade in the State Capitolylie relocated to New York City to become the Managing Director for state funding at T