Directory Information

This memorandum provides general guidance regarding the use of Directory Information as defined in and authorized by the Family Educational Rights Privacy Act (FERPA).¹ Education Law § 2-d does not prohibit schools from using the Directory Information exception under FERPA.

Directory Information is information such as a student's name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, honors and awards, and dates of attendance that a school may disclose without parental consent. The release of Directory Information under FERPA is authorized by federal regulations.² An educational agency must comply with these provisions when implementing a Directory Information policy. That section requires that educational agencies notify parents and eligible students of:

- f The types of personally identifiable information (PII) the education agency has designated as directory (i.e., name, grade, etc.)
- f The right of parents or eligible (i.e., over 18) students to refuse to let the educational agency designate any or all those types of information about the students as directory; and
- f How a parent or eligible student can notify the educational agency in writing that they do not want any or all of those types of information about student designated directory.
